

Privacy Policy

Privacy Clause

It is one of our primary responsibilities to protect the privacy of our customers and visitors to our website and to ensure the security of their personal and financial information. The following privacy statement explains how CPT Markets collect and protect your information. The CPT Markets referred to here include CPT Markets and all of its companies and departments.

According to the privacy statement, once you open an account or use our website at CPT Markets, you agree that CPT Markets collect and use your personal information in accordance with the contents of this privacy agreement.

Personal Information Collection

We obtain your personal information directly from you or indirectly through your relationship with us. CPT Markets may apply the information gathered from you to: confirm your identity and contact information, open your trading account, set up your trading account and password for you, maintain your account live, contact you for account-related information, or other reasons. This information can also help us improve the service quality, provide personalized browsing experience, and convey to you other products, services, offers and other information you may be interested in.

Most of your information we get is provided by you directly, including your name, mailing address, phone number, email and other contact information. In addition, we collect information that can identify you according to the law, including your social security number, passport number or tax number. At the same time, we also collect your personal background information when you open an account, including gender, date of birth, education level and employment status. Our regulators also require us to evaluate your trading experience, annual gross income, gross net worth and affordable venture capital, using all this information to assess your financial situation.

You can provide this information to us by submitting an account opening application and related documents, sending us an email, or submitting information to us for a promotional event.

The information we collect from you indirectly: your IP address, browser type, operating system, network provider, server clock, and transaction record.

If you close the account, CPT Markets will retain your information, but will only be used in compliance with regulatory requirements ,as well as in regular contact with you and provide the opportunity to re-open the account or participate in other promotional activities.

Cookies

We use Cookies and network beacons (also known as network behavior tags or single-pixel GIF images), and other technologies (collectively called Cookies) to get usable data to improve your user experience and help us understand you better. Cookies are small text files that are emitted by web servers and may be stored on your computer. Through Cookies we can learn about you visit our site, when you visit the site, the page you visited, and identify you as logged in when we receive a page visit request from your web browser. We may point the information stored in the Cookie to the personal identification information you submit on our website. We will never disclose this information to any third party. Cookies can only be read through us without any personal information, without any account or password information. We can not and will not collect your browsing information on other websites.

We may be able to share with reputable advertising companies the information that users visit our website for the purpose of advertising positioning on the Internet. The information shared can not be used for personal identification. We may also use third-party software to track and analyze access and traffic data, including page requests, table requests, and click paths, which may set Cookies on behalf of CPT Markets.

All web browsers allow you to set up blocking Cookies. If your web browser is set to allow Cookies, you agree that we use Cookies in the above manner. If you choose to block Cookies, you can still use our service, but some features may not work the way they were originally designed.

Share personal information with CPT Markets affiliates and partners

CPT Markets shall not sell, license, lease or disclose your personal information to any subsidiary or third party for any reason other than the following:

If your personal information is required to provide you with the product or service you request, or to provide you with the product or service provided by our affiliates, CPT Markets can share that information with its affiliates.

In order to improve service quality, we may employ other companies to handle certain internal affairs, such as account processing, execution, customer service, customer satisfaction survey or other data collection related to our business. We may also provide the database customer information to non-affiliated third parties, including your name, address, phone number, and email, to help us analyze and clarify customer needs, product and service information, or carry out general marketing and market research. To ensure that such products and services meet your needs and are available in an effective and appropriate manner, CPT Markets may share a portion of your personal information with these non-affiliated third parties.

For all non-affiliated third parties who share your non-public personal information with CPT Markets, we will ask them to agree to keep your information confidential and used only for limited, cooperative purposes with CPT Markets or for compliance with the law. In addition, when non-affiliated third parties provide a product or service to you, we usually require them to disclose that the extension of this product or service is due to your relationship with CPT Markets. We also seek to ensure that these non-affiliated third parties implement appropriate data security measures to ensure that your personal information is not obtained and used without permission.

CPT Markets reserves the right to provide your personal information to third parties when required by law to provide relevant information to regulators, law enforcement agencies or other government agencies. In addition, we may disclose your information for the purpose of credit review or collection agency, or for the purpose of safeguarding our rights or property.

Any time you choose to purchase a product or service from another company, for example by clicking on an AD on a website owned or controlled by CPT Markets, the personal information you share with that company will no longer be subject to our privacy statement. We are not responsible for the privacy policies or content of the sites we link to, and we cannot control the use of the information you provide or collected by these sites and protect such information. Any time you choose to link to a joint site or visit a linked site, you may be asked to provide registration or other information. Please note that the information you provide will be submitted to a third party. You must first be familiar with the privacy policy published by the third party.

Security of personal information

We use network security software, systems and programs to provide you with a secure trading environment and protect your personal, financial and trading information.

When we open an account for you, you will be given a unique account number, username and password. Only a small number of CPT Markets employees who need to know this information because of work will know your account number, username and password. Remember: you are responsible for maintaining your account information, such as account number, username and password. We strongly recommend that you do not disclose this information to anyone else. Our website and online account opening page use encryption technology to secure the transmission of information between us and you, and use e-business certification Authority (English as Certificate Authority) to authenticate our website, guarantee transactions and the safety of customers' online applications, to help you identify whether or not it is our website that is connected.

Privacy policy changes and exits

Once CPT Markets materially changes the content of this privacy statement, the revised privacy statement will be posted to the website immediately. By opening our account, you agree that the electronic notice on the privacy statement issued on the website is the actual notice.

In some cases, such as when we share your personal information with non-affiliated third parties, you can contact us through the following contact information to inform us that you wish to "exit" of the privacy policy. For a joint account, the withdrawal decision of one of the account holders will be regarded as the withdrawal decision of all the joint account holders. If you have multiple accounts at CPT Markets, you must submit an exit request separately for each account.

Any dispute over privacy claims must be governed by this notice and the customer agreement of CPT Markets. If you have any other questions not mentioned in this statement, please contact our customer service representative.